New Prairie Spirit Board Trustee

Emily Summach

Emily Summach was elected as the Prairie Spirit Trustee for Subdivision 3 - Borden and Langham in a by-election on March 19.

Summach joined the Prairie Spirit Board of Education meeting on March 24.

"As a parent of two elementary age children, I've really come to value the gift that is public education," Summach said. "Healthy schools are an important part of thriving rural communities here in Saskatchewan. I wanted to run for the Prairie Spirit Trustee position to support our schools in their mission of creating lifelong learners."

Summach has been part of the School Community Council (SCC) at Langham Elementary School for the past three years. She is the chair of the Walter W. Brown School playground committee which will be installing a new playground this spring. She loves volunteering in her kids' classrooms.

She is the Lead Pastor at Mount Royal Mennonite Church in Saskatoon and has a background in communications and administration.

"On behalf of the Prairie Spirit Board of Education, I am thrilled to congratulate Emily and give her a warm welcome to the Board," said Kate Kading, Board Chair. "We are excited to collaborate and make a meaningful impact together for the students and staff of Prairie Spirit School Division."

The by-election was planned when the Trustee elected for Subdivision 3 in general Board elections in November stepped away from the role.

Prairie Spirit School Division serves 11,500 students in 45 schools and 28 communities surrounding the City of Saskatoon.
